AUSTRALIA POST MUST COME CLEAN ON 'SECRET DEALS' AND SPECIAL TREATMENT INVOLVING PAULINE HANSON (FED)

Front page media reports that Australia Post Managing Director Christine Holgate threatened to call police to ensure Pauline Hanson's parcels were delivered to Melbourne public housing towers in lockdown have led the CEPU Communications Union to raise serious questions about the relationship between Australia Post and the One National leader, Pauline Hanson. These revelations detail an incident that occurred after Senator Hanson moved to establish an inquiry into the relaxation of mail delivery regulation, allowing the doubling of delivery times, but then 'ran dead' on the issue. CEPU Communications Union National Secretary, Greg Rayner, said, "Deteriorating postal services have been forced through under the cover of Covid-19 and the community deserves to know why."
